Mark is a shareholder and chair of the Real Estate Practice Group in the Milwaukee office. Mark counsels clients and is experienced in all phases of commercial real estate law and finance, including sales transactions, acquisitions, development, leasing, architectural and construction matters, financing, tax-deferred exchanges and tax credit transactions. A substantial portion of Mark's practice is devoted to real estate finance, representing both lenders and borrowers in matters ranging from construction and permanent real estate loan transactions to loan workouts. While Mark has significant experience representing developers, owners, investors, financial institutions, architectural firms and construction companies, Mark also specializes in affordable housing transactions and is particularly experienced in representing for-profit and non-profit developers in Section 8 and Section 42 low-income tax credit transactions.
